Jury Finds Car Death Accidental

A coroner's jury which heard 11 witnesses at an inquest held in Syracuse Monday morning into the death of William Ervin Edwards, 33, who was killed Saturday morning, found simply that he met his death in an automobile accident. The inquest was held at the Syracuse pumping station by Gene Bartram, Morgan county coroner.

The jury was composed of A. C. Thomas, Pat Maloney, Alfred Holman, Amos Ehrke, Earl Steel and Carl Moon. The jury's verdict was "the deceased met death from injuries due to the accident of two automobiles" and it did not make any recommendations.

The 11 witnesses who testified were: Duane Ewing of the Ewing Funeral Home, Sedalia; Dick Richards and Virgil Emery, Tipton; Junior Koenke, Marvin Graham and Bill Needy of Syracuse; Trooper James R. Phillips, State Highway Patrol and Gene Hausett, of Booneville; Mrs. May Richardson, of the Log Cabin Service station in front of which the accident occurred, 1½ miles west of Syracuse; Bill Siebold, Kansas City; and Trooper Donald J. Slevins, State Patrol, Versailles.

Harold Stanley Dodson, Kansas City, driver of the second car involved with the car Edwards was driving, is a patient in Bothwell Hospital and was unable to attend the inquest hearing. Dodson was represented at the inquest by members of his family and an attorney.

Sheriff J. T. Hull, of Morgan County, said Monday afternoon the warrant for Dodson, charging him with careless driving which was issued Saturday evening, had been withdrawn by Prosecuting Attorney William G. Johnson.

Johnson was also in attendance at the inquest.

Sheriff Hull also stated the hold order for Dodson had been removed and he has been released, as far as the Sheriff's office is concerned, to be returned to Kansas City to a hospital there if he so desires.

WASHINGTON (AP) — James R. Hoffa, Midwest boss of the Teamsters Union, today asked dismissal of an indictment accusing him of conspiring to plant a spy on the staff of the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee.

Flying Boxcar Crashes Killing Four Persons

TOKYO (AP) — A U. S. Air Force C119 Flying Boxcar crashed on northern Kyushu Island today, killing all four men aboard. A helicopter searching for the wreckage also crashed in the rain, injuring three Americans aboard.

An Air Force spokesman said the bodies of the airmen had been recovered from the wreckage of the C119, which piled up while on a flight from the 483rd Troop Carrier Wing at Ashiya Air Base. The men aboard the search helicopter were hospitalized. There was no immediate word as to the extent of their injuries.

Names of all seven airmen were withheld.

Second Week Of Liquor Trial Begins

Government Resumes Offensive Against Alleged Conspiracy

TULSA (AP) — Trial of 20 persons charged with violating federal liquor laws through a mass conspiracy involving an alleged protection payoff system went into its second week today.

The government, having presented during the first week more than 50 of an expected 85 witnesses, resumed its offensive against Police Commissioner Jay L. Jones, suspended Police Chief Paul J. Livingston and Tulsa Tribune reporter Nolen Bulloch.

U. S. Atty. B. Hayden Crawford contends Bulloch, a Pulitzer prize nominee this year, was the "conductor" of what the prosecutor has termed a "conspiracy named corruption." Crawford has charged the plot to import liquor into illegally dry Oklahoma and to facilitate its sale without payment of required federal taxes was in existence over a nine-year period.

In addition to Jones, Livingston and Bulloch, other defendants are six suspended police officers, seven bootleggers, a Missouri liquor dealer, a professional bondsman, a grocer and a billiard parlor operator.

John Bill Edwards, a bootlegger, who said he was in "charge of the whiskey business" during the "protection fix" in Tulsa last summer, was one of the government's chief witnesses last week.

Edwards testified that a "spoils" split as arranged at a meeting attended by Jones, Livingston, Jack Gott, a police officer, Charles Herring and John McAfee and himself. The witness, who said Bulloch was not at the meeting, also was to be in for 10 per cent of the contributions Edwards said were made by bootleggers, gamblers and prostitutes. He said the payments were insurance against police raids and newspaper publicity.

Edwards is the brother of one of the defendants, Martin Edwards, also a bootlegger. A bitter hatred exists between the two, even so far as for them to deny their kinship. Edwards testified he would like to see Martin in the penitentiary.

'Mayflower II' Sails Beyond Sight of Coast

ST. KEVERNE, England (AP) — Mayflower II the replica of the Pilgrim fathers' ship—sailed out of sight of the English coast today as she headed for the United States.

Soon after dawn, the little wooden sailing vessel was spotted by the coast guard 15 miles out from The Lizard, southernmost point of England's coast. Half an hour later she was out of sight.

Coast guard officer William Knight said, "On her course she has seen the last land until she approaches her destination."

The ship left Plymouth, England, Saturday, bound for Plymouth, Mass. For more than 24 hours she dawdled in the English Channel with hardly a breath of wind to fill her sails.

Skipper Alan Villiers, Australian seafarer, hopes to land the ship in Plymouth in about six weeks. He has said it all depends on weather conditions in the Atlantic. There is a crew of 32 aboard.

Just before the little ship sailed out of land's sight, Knight flashed the following poem—he said he had composed—to the vessel by signal lamp:

"Sail on, sail on, oh pilgrims free:
"In treasure's chest, man's destiny.
"Your course is true
"On each degree, faith, hope and charity."

Mainline of Frisco Is Blocked When 36 Freight Cars Derail

HAYTI, Mo. (AP) — The mainline of the Frisco Railroad was blocked early today by the derailment of 36 freight cars about four miles south of here.

No one was reported injured.

Two work trains were dispatched to the scene and a Frisco spokesman said the tracks were expected to be cleared this afternoon.

Passenger and freight trains were being rerouted through Hayti and Kennett, Mo., and Blytheville, Ark.

A Frisco official said the wreck was apparently caused by a burned out axle housing which railroad men call a "hotbox." The train was St. Louis bound freight 836.

Dulles Tells Russia US Seeks Freedom of 'Captive Nations'

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles bluntly told Russia today that the United States seeks "the liberation of the captive nations." He said "the pressures of liberty are rising" within the Soviet bloc.

In an address prepared for the annual Associated Press luncheon, Dulles also appealed to Congress and the American people to preserve the administration's foreign military and economic aid programs against those with "a zeal to economize." He evidently referred to some members of Congress.

Would Stop Boxing Outfit In Missouri

NEW YORK (AP) — Dissolution of the International Boxing Clubs of New York, Illinois, Michigan and Missouri was sought by the government in a proposed decree filed today with Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan.

Ryan ruled last March 8 that the IBC and its officials were guilty of violating antitrust laws by engaging in a conspiracy to monopolize professional championship fights in the United States.

Cited with the IBC were James D. Norris, president of the IBC in New York, and Arthur M. Wirtz, president of the IBC in Chicago.

In his 59-page decision, Judge Ryan asked the IBC and the government to file proposed decrees with him.

A hearing on these proposals has been scheduled for May 20.

In its proposed final judgment the government asked that the IBC of New York and Chicago be ordered immediately "to take appropriate steps to cause dissolution in accordance with the laws of their respective state of incorporation."

The government also proposed that Norris and Wirtz be ordered to "take appropriate steps" to cause the dissolution of the IBC in Michigan and Missouri.

The government's proposed judgment also asked that within six months of the judgment, if it is granted, Norris and Wirtz sell all the capital stock of the Madison Square Garden Corp., which they own or control.

He also expressed confidence that Soviet "threats," such as have recently been directed against Allied nations in Europe because of their membership in the Atlantic Alliance, "will not disintegrate" the collective defense systems of the free world.

Dulles' address had the full advance approval of President Eisenhower, who read it at his Augusta, Ga., vacation headquarters. Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower also had discussed it by telephone with Dulles.

The address was Dulles' first since last fall, and also his first speech of Eisenhower's second term.

Dulles said the question of how the United States should deal with Communist "despotism" is not an easy one to answer. He declared the United States had set an example to stimulate forces for freedom throughout the world and he assured Soviet satellite countries that "we shall never make a political settlement at their expense."

He ruled out action by the United States to "incite violent revolt" and called instead for measures to "encourage an evolution to freedom."

"Let us also make apparent to the Soviet rulers our real purpose. We condemn and oppose their imperialism. We seek the liberation of the captive nations," he said of Russia.

"We seek this, however, not in order to encircle Russia with hostile forces, but because peace is in jeopardy and freedom a word of mockery until the divided nations are reunited and the captive nations are set free."

In describing the "pressures of liberty" which he said are rising within the Soviet bloc, Dulles said there is increasing demand for greater personal security, freedom and economic benefits within Russia; that international communism is beset with "doctrinal difficulties" and that the "cruel performance of Soviet communism in Hungary" had led many Communist party members throughout the world to desert communism.

Hunt Goes On For Missing Lincoln Pair

Husband and Wife Believed Drowned In Lake of Ozarks

A search continues for a young Benton County couple missing in the Lake of the Ozarks since Saturday evening. The parents of two small children, Carlos Wayne Powell, 24, and Nadine Powell, 21, were reported missing when their empty motorboat was found swirling in the lake Saturday evening.

Sheriff Bob White, assisted by many Warsaw residents, weekend fishermen and women, have been dragging the lake in the area from the Highway 65 bridge back up to past the swining bridge near the city docks.

"We are at loss as to where to actually drag," Sheriff White said, "because we don't know exactly where or even the area in which they might have been thrown into the lake."

It is presumed the couple drowned. No eyewitnesses have been found who saw them in the boat or thrown from the boat. The only thing definitely known is they were supposed to have entered the boat and started down the lake.

Dan Powell, brother of Carlos, was standing on one of the swinging bridges watching for his brother and wife to come down the lake. The first he saw was the boat spinning in circles and no one in it. He rushed for help and an alarm was quickly spread over Warsaw.

Jordan's King Hussein Says There Is No Truth In Story

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Cairo radio and news agencies spread a report today that Iraqi troops had moved into Jordan, taking up threatening positions near Syrian forces encamped in the desert kingdom. The report was discounted in Syria and Israel.

The Egyptian Middle East News Agency said Iraq troops camped near Et Mafrak in northern Jordan, and that Syrian President Shukhri Kuwatlay had asked King Hussein of Jordan to try to avoid a clash between Iraqis and Syrians.

A reliable source in Damascus said King Hussein, in a telephone talk with Kuwatlay, declared there was no truth in the report.

An Israeli Foreign Ministry spokesman in Jerusalem also said the Cairo radio had broadcast a report only in Hebrew, apparently for its effect on Israel, that an entire Iraqi tank division had rolled into Jordan.

Israeli intelligence sources in Tel Aviv reported, however, that 2,000 Iraqi troops had moved up to Jordan's border, presumably to assist King Hussein in keeping his throne, if need be. These sources added that another 1,000 Syrians had crossed into Jordan, reinforcing the 3,000 already near Mafrak. Syrian troops have been in northern Jordan since the invasion of Egypt last fall. Saudi Arabian troops are in south Jordan.

During Jordan's recent political crisis, when Hussein dismissed the government of Premier Suleiman Nabulsi, and along with the Communist and Leftist elements, there were fears in the Middle East that the monarchy might collapse and that Jordan's neighbors might rush in to dismember the country.

Nabulsi, foreign minister in the new government, charged last night that "certain foreign diplomatic missions" had interfered in Jordan's affairs. He did not name the mission. Some Jordan Leftists have demanded that the U. S. ambassador be expelled.

Two former chiefs of Jordan's army, now in exile in Syria, also charged foreign interference in the little country, and one of them named the United States.

Maj. Gen. Ali Hayari, who became chief of staff of the Jordan army after the crisis and kept the job only one day before resigning, denied a report he was planning to form a "free Jordan army."

Hayari said the report that he and Maj. Gen. Ali Abu Nuwar, his predecessor, intended to form such an army in exile, was an "imperialistic" invention which "probably was engineered by the ousted British Gen. John Glubb, aimed at creating unrest in Jordan's army."

Parents Join Hunt for Body Of Their Son

He Vanishes After Being Sucked From Airplane Window

PARIS (AP) — The parents of the American tourist who was sucked out of an Air France plane over the Iraqi desert Saturday night arrived here today aboard the same type plane on which their son was a passenger.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nash of Memphis, Tenn., will leave tomorrow for Istanbul, where authorities are investigating the strange disappearance of their son, Jack Rodney Nash, 31.

Air France officials here said yesterday Nash—a bachelor with a passion for travel—was sucked out of the Super Constellation at 18,000 feet when a window near his seat burst.

Turkish police at Istanbul said, however, that the plane in which the accident occurred landed there with an escape door missing. Air France declined comment on that statement. Super Constellation windows measure approximately 18 by 16 inches.

Nash was on the last leg of an aerial round-the-world tour. No trace of his body has been found.

Nash, who was graduated from the University of Missouri in 1948, had traveled extensively. He had been associated with his father in the operation of a hardware store.

Although airmen described the accident as extremely rare, an Air France spokesman in Paris said it was "not without precedent."

The Paris spokesman and Air France officials in Istanbul gave this version:

The four-engine Constellation was about 25 miles north of Jir-kouk, northern Iraq, when the third window on the right side of the plane burst "with a loud explosion."

Nash, who was asleep in the seat next to the window, was sucked out.

The pane immediately filled with steam as frigid air outside poured into the heated cabin.

When the air finally cleared, other passengers noticed that Nash was missing.

The plane descended quickly to a lower level while shivering passengers crowded into the front of the craft until it arrived at Istanbul.

Friends in Memphis said Nash was an admirer of the late Richard Halliburton, noted traveler and author who disappeared at sea while trying to sail a Chinese junk from Hong Kong to San Francisco in 1939. Halliburton was a native of Memphis.

State's Wet Weather Pattern Will Continue

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Missouri's wet weather pattern will continue. Hardly any part of the state escaped showers Sunday and Sunday night. The forecast was for scattered showers and thunderstorms this afternoon, tonight and Tuesday. And the long range forecast was for showers and thunderstorms intermittently through next Saturday.

The weatherman said there were prospects of locally heavy showers near the Illinois border north of St. Louis this afternoon and tonight.

Heaviest rain in the past 24 hours was 3.16 at Glasgow. Other reports included: West Plains 1.85; Hannibal 1.69; Steelville 1.53; Troy 1.35; Nevada 1.21; St. Louis 1.07; Chillicothe 1.01; Trenton 1.00; Hermann .95; Columbia .78; and Booneville .74.

It will be warmer in the north and west-central sections today. Tuesday's highs will range from 65-75 north to the 70s south.

Senate Will Return Tuesday

Missouri House Resumes Work With Less Time, Tougher Bills

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri House came back to work today with time growing short and the tough bills still ahead.

The Senate won't return until tomorrow and it, too, has some big lawmaking chores ahead.

The House is returning from a week long Easter recess with the prospects of major battles this week on still pending House bills, such as:

The utility anti-strike law repealer which would bar the state from taking over and operating any strike-threatened public utility.

A general retirement plan for state employees with a particularly generous pension program for legislators themselves. It was advanced to final debate stage two weeks ago and since then has caused a furor of public opposition.

A bill to set up a state director of labor, with broad power to regulate wages and working conditions with his administrative control, over all state agencies that affect labor — unemployment compensation, workmen's compensation, industrial and mine inspection.

The so-called minimum wage law which would set a statewide hourly floor on wages of 75 cents but would also permit establishment of occupation minimums above that level.

Also still pending, and possibly to be given a last ditch whirl, is a bill to permit horse race meetings in Missouri, along with on-the-grounds betting. Such measures have been regulars in the Missouri Legislature in recent years but always they have failed.

The Senate is expected to take up a state patrol bill, sharply changed from the original House version. The original measure called for an increase in uniformed personnel from 355 men to 600, plus substantial pay increases for all ranks.

But in its first debate on the measure, the Senate wiped out all increases and agreed to add only 100 men to the uniformed staff.

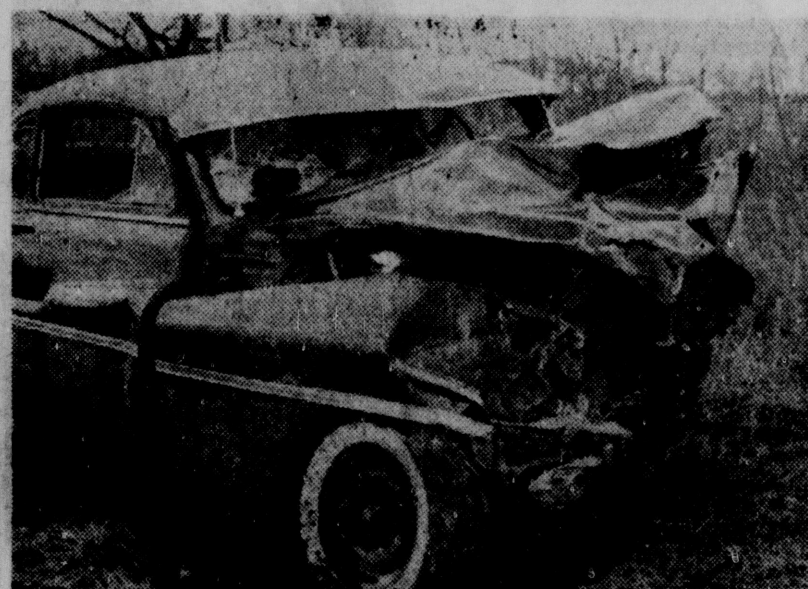

The Senate Appropriations Committee, which held final hearings on House-passed money bills last week, is expected to hold closed meetings this week to trim the budget well below the figures agreed upon by the House.

Counting this one, there are only six weeks left of the 1957 legislative session, which must adjourn by midnight May 31.

Two automobiles collided at Fifth and Vermont at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, in which both vehicles were damaged. Occupants of the cars escaped injury.

Involved was a 1935 Pontiac sedan driven by Urel E. Shaw, 1611 South Ohio, who was going east on Fifth and a 1933 Pontiac sedan driven by Miss Patricia Lee Brown, 2342 West Third, who was driving north on Vermont.

The right front fender, right front door and right front end of the Shaw car was damaged and the left front end of the Brown car was damaged.

A 1935 Ford sedan driven by Mrs. Frances King Purviance, 919 South Ohio, and a 1932 Buick sedan, driven by Harrison Richardson, Kansas City, were damaged in a collision at Broadway and Massachusetts. The accident occurred at 11:05 a.m. Sunday.

Mrs. Purviance was driving south on Massachusetts and Richardson was going east when the cars collided. The right side of the Ford was damaged and the front end of the Buick damaged.

No injuries were received by occupants of two automobiles which were in collision at Fifth and Lafayette about 9:40 a.m. Sunday. Damage resulted to the automobiles.

Robert Peter Opel, Marshall, was driving a 1930 Chevrolet sedan and was backing his car up to park and got too far to the left side of the street when the bumper on the car struck the left rear fender of a 1937 Ford sedan which was parked. The parked car belonged to Richard D. Wiemholt, 500 East Fifth.

fishing in the area in hopes they might find the bodies.

Sheriff White, with Trooper Glenn Means of the Highway Patrol, had several crews in the lake early Sunday morning, using four sets of drags. Two sets were lost. Monday more dragging operations were being held, but as yet without results.

According to Sheriff White, the boat was overturned. He theorized that when the motor was started, it was wide open and the boat lurched in the water, possibly throwing Mrs. Powell in the lake. She was said to be a non-swimmer, and her husband probably went into the water after her and they were pulled under.

Accidents

Two cars were damaged in a collision on the Beaman Road about 9:45 a.m. Sunday. Occupants of the vehicles escaped injury.

Involved was a 1930 Pontiac sedan driven by Harry Hall, 45, of Route 5, Sedalia, which was headed east and a 1937 Dodge sedan driven by Yancey Thomson, 68, of near Beaman, who was driving west.

According to Trooper Pete Stohr, of the State Highway Patrol, Thomson said his windshield fogged up and he couldn't see the road.

The cars collided almost head-on, doing slight damage to the front ends of both.

The accident occurred in front of the Gordon Callis farm.

Slight damage resulted to three automobiles about 6 o'clock Sunday night on Highway 50 just east of the Mill Overstreet farm. No injuries were reported.

Involved was a 1932 Oldsmobile convertible, driven by Norman D. Devon, 23, a student at Central Missouri State College; a 1931 Ford sedan driven by Thurman L. Duncan, 19, of Richland, Mo.; and a 1933 Plymouth coach driven by George C. Miller, 29, of Kansas City, Kan.

According to information given Trooper Robert Stockdell of the State Highway Patrol, a 1948 Chevrolet was attempting to pass the cars and went off the pavement on the south side shoulder, and trying to get back on the right side in front of oncoming traffic, swerved. Devon slowed his car almost to a stop to let him get back in the line of traffic and Duncan's car hit the rear of Devon, and the Miller car hit the rear end of the Duncan car.

The Chevrolet did not stop and continued down the highway. A description of the car was given the State Patrol.

A nine-month-old baby received a bruised forehead in an accident at 14th and Limit about 1:15 p.m. Sunday, and damage resulted to two automobiles.

The child, Alan Walter, was riding in a car driven by his father, Tom Edward Walter, Independence, headed south on Limit in his 1933 Ford sedan, when a collision occurred with a 1935 Chrysler sedan driven by Dr. D. C. Proctor, 1605 West 13th.

Dr. Proctor was headed west and making a left turn on to the highway when the cars collided. The left front fender and bumper on the Ford and the right front fender and bumper on the Chrysler were damaged.

The child was examined by Dr. Carl Siegel, at the Bothwell Hospital.

Two automobiles collided at Fifth and Vermont at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, in which both vehicles were damaged. Occupants of the cars escaped injury.

Day Nursery Children Have Easter Party

Melita Day Nursery children enjoyed an Easter party Thursday afternoon which started with refreshments at a table centered with an Easter bunny. Mrs. Lucy R. Abourn, superintendent, had made a little basket for each child and filled it with candy eggs. She also cut out little chickens and put one at each place with the child's name on it.

The Easter bunny showed up and the two young women who assist Mrs. Rabourn went out to help him hide the eggs around in the yard, then the youngsters went out to hunt them and what a big time they did have. The Easter bunny had helped in getting the eggs ready, so since this visit was a little early. The Striped College 4-H Club members had colored some beautiful eggs and brought candy eggs, too, and the Longwood Extension Club had colored eggs and made darling little Easter rabbit cookies that were decorated.

The Thomas Bakery on West Fifth, that all through the year sends things to the children at the nursery, didn't forget them at Easter. They sent little Easter cakes. A good friend of the nursery all year long, too, is Carl Schrader who sent a nice donation.

So, Thursday, with its pre-Easter visit from the bunny and all the other nice things, was a great day for the Nursery children, and there was something more to delight them, balloons, just as brightly colored as the Easter eggs.

Demonstrations Given At Woodwork Class

The Striped College Woodwork Class has met six evenings the past two weeks at the home of the leaders, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Dabner. There were 59 present at the combined meetings. ## Asks Newsmen Be Allowed To Red China

NEW YORK (P)—The Board of Directors of The Associated Press said today. "Qualified newsmen should be allowed to report first hand from the mainland of China."

Comment on the State Department's refusal to permit U.S. newsmen to travel to Red China, the board told the annual meeting of members of The Associated Press, worldwide news cooperative.

"The most noticeable gap in our coverage, and one that has caused much controversy, is Communist China."

"We were invited by the Chinese, along with others, to send a reporter into the country. The United States Department of State refused permission and threatened serious sanctions."

The Associated Press disagreed with the government's action and the board at this time states again that it believes qualified newsmen should be allowed to report first hand from the mainland of China."

The directors observed that, despite the ban, The AP "did get first-hand reporting from China by commissioning a Canadian newspaperman (David Lancashire) to make a tour of the country."

Newsmen have protested that the travel ban infringed on the right of people in the United States to know, through their own reporters, about conditions in China. Secretary of State Dulles said recently that he and President Eisenhower have considered dropping the ban but have failed to find a formula for doing so.

Dulles speaks today at the AP's annual luncheon in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. Presiding at the luncheon and at the AP business meetings will be Robert McLean of the Philadelphia Bulletin, president of The AP.

In its annual report to the members today, the Board of Directors discussed news and photo coverage during the year and said The AP "again produced a superior news report."

The directors said, "We have continued to encounter problems on the domestic scene, as well as roadblocks abroad, in the day-by-day efforts to cut through varying kinds of restriction and censorship."

They said there has been some improvement in coverage The AP is allowed to provide from Communist-dominated areas.

"In Poland we again have a regularly assigned staff correspondent" and "in Czechoslovakia, The AP has been able to send in staffers from other European countries for brief periods," the directors said. There was "no major change" in Russia, where The AP has two regularly assigned correspondents.

Bridal Heirloom Can Look New If Carefully Cleaned

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

The "something old" for the bride's wedding outfit is often a cherished family heirloom, which adds priceless tradition to the occasion. From an attic trunk a carefully wrapped tissue - paper package yields the treasured piece of lace, the fragile embroidery, the delicate crochet work, perhaps even the gown or veil itself.

What if the heirloom needs something more than a good airing?

It's almost impossible to generalize on the renovation of old fabrics and heirloom finery. Methods depend on variables such as fiber content, soil content, age and type of storage.

However, here are a few suggestions:

If the "something old" is of manageable size and is made of fine cotton or linen, you may want to try laundering it at home. But most of us can't be so courageous as Helen Virginia Meyer, fashion historian who has a collection of unusual fashions dating from the early 1800's. She washes everything.

The washing methods for old fabrics differ radically from ordinary wash d. procedures. Most of the authorities I talked with use lukewarm distilled water; really soft water might do just as well, they say. The minerals in hard water are damaging to any fine fabrics, particularly old ones.

Some authorities use soap, many recommend fine synthetic detergent suds. All agreed that after fabrics are wet they should not be touched unless absolutely necessary.

You may find it easier to wash and dry a bit of fine lace, if you first baste it to a piece of netting or fine linen. Be careful the needle doesn't split the lace threads.

One popular washing method is to fill a big jar - half gallon or gallon size - with soft water and suds, drop in the finery, cap tightly, and gently rock and roll the bottle. This squishes the suds through the fibers without undue handling. After washing, uncup the jar and let running water float the suds out and rinse the article. Drain, turn out on a towel and blot up excess moisture.

Another method is to wrap lace around a bottle, cover with a piece of netting and sponge the delicate handwork with suds. Sponge or spray rinse.

Yet another method favored for extremely delicate pieces is to place the article between two pieces of plastic mesh or net, making it possible to wash and dry the fabric without ever touching it. Fill a shallow pan with softened suds and lower the net-protected heirloom into this. You can squeeze suds through the fabric with a sponge and then spray rinse. Dry on a towel.

Don't use bleaches on delicate fabrics. If a piece is yellowed try Miss Meyer's method of sun bleaching. She wets the item with suds, then places it on top of aluminum foil or wax paper in the sun. The foil or paper retards evaporation and intensifies the bleaching action. Pressing the finery usually requires a press cloth between fabric and iron. Steam from an upended steam iron, a teakettle or pan of boiling water will bring up the nap of a material or the texture of embroidery.

Tree Program For Sedalia

Soon Sedalia's trees will be full of foliage and provide accustomed shade during the hot months, and also conceal horrible limb stumps and other scars of improper care.

One of our democratic privileges is to howl our heads off for the preservation of trees, even those which have been neglected and are ready to give up the ghost. It is more appropriate to become poetic about healthy trees which add to the landscape their bit of glory in delightful spring green and fall yellow, red and brown; or in phantom beauty "lift their leafy arms to pray." Some of the more discouraged and dying trees actually appear to be doing the latter.

Sedalia has pretty and ugly trees but no organized plan to preserve the former and remove the latter. Ravages wrought by the inexorable forces of nature, tornadic winds and sleet storms, plus old age mar the appearance and utility of areas where there are magnificent trees.

Tree lovers might well unite in a city-wide program to encourage better care of them. One enthusiast calls attention to the parkways of Sedalia, the areas between curb lines and property lines which are literally studded with dead trees, stumps of trees removed, brick and concrete sidewalks bulged by tree roots, all a hazard to pedestrian traffic, and all detracting from any vestige of beauty the parking area otherwise might have.

There is a way out of such a dilemma, writes this Sedalian to the Suggestion Department, a means whereby these old trees can be disposed of. The proposal is to persuade the Mayor and City Council to use part of the money from parking meters in a five-year program to correct the deteriorating condition. Properly equipped with tree removal gadgets, the city street department could take on this responsibility. A census of the worst eyesores could be taken to determine the order in which dead, dying and stump trees should come out. Each ward would receive equal attention. Trees on city property, and parking areas owned by the public, could be referred to the Sedalia Park Board for proper trimming by tree experts. The Board could also establish a new shade tree service and recommend the right species to be set, proper spacing, and how to care for them.

Another valuable by-product of a dead tree removal program, it is suggested, would be the replacement of broken curbs, sidewalks set and laid at the proper grade to drain readily, and the parking itself graded and seeded to lawn grass. Such a rehabilitated parking would then become an ideal place for the planting of flowering shrubs.

As this exponent of city beautification puts it, every gallon of cents from parking meters would make a barrel of sense in ridding the city of unsightly trees and creating permanently beautiful borders for the new pavements going in during the next five years.

There may be better ways of getting this job of city beautification under way. Certainly it needs stimulation. The Suggestion Department is open for ideas to get the movement started one way or another.

May Take Years to Evaluate Ike's Work

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—One of the frequently asked questions in Washington is: "What do you think President Eisenhower's place in history will be?"

His rating among the Presidents will probably be determined more by what he manages to achieve in foreign policy than by anything in sight for him to do at home. Some of his critics get impatient because he does not take a tougher, or harsher, line with the Russians and because he insists on exhausting every reasonable means of dealing with Egyptian President Nasser.

But it is right here—in his policy of patience—that history may make the final determination on whether he was truly wise. When he took office Asia was on fire. The fire is still there but the flame has died down. It can hardly be said his policy of restraint had nothing to do with that.

When the blaze shifted to the Middle East, he seemed to have a choice: crack down on Nasser or try to sweat it out. He might, by being round, have won the skirmish with Nasser. But it might have antagonized the Arab world and opened it to Russia. The end result would have been a colossal defeat.

By patience, by an attitude of understanding for the new nationalism of the Arabs and their immaturity as only recently independent people, he may yet save the Middle East from communism.

But all this is in an evolutionary state. The true value of what he has done in the foreign field—good or bad—may not show up for years after he steps out of the presidency.

It is only now that President Truman's vigor, vision and decisiveness are beginning to be appreciated. The steps he took to hold Russia by containment are not only accepted by Eisenhower but are being pursued by him.

At home Eisenhower is trying to lead the Republican party toward a more liberal course. He himself has not gone beyond the New Deal and "Fair Deal."

He has pretty much accepted both, adopted them, and is now trying to extend them.

Both deals are so much a part of American life—with broad benefits for so many people—that if Eisenhower had shown signs of wanting to undo them in 1952 and 1956 he probably would not have been elected either time.

The philosophy of Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower can be boiled down to this: they believed the government has a responsibility for the welfare of the people.

It is by no means certain that Eisenhower, by the time he leaves the White House, will have persuaded his party to pursue a steadily liberal course in its policies. There are plenty of grumblings about him now, and opposition to him, among the Republican conservatives.

If the conservatives capture control of the party after Eisenhower, and try to turn the clock back, they may well succeed in wrecking the party not only for years but forever.

That the voters themselves make a big distinction between Democrats and Republicans—unfavorable to Republicans—was shown in the elections of 1954 and 1956.

In 1954, with Republican Eisenhower in the presidency, the voters gave Democrats control of Congress. And in 1956, while re-electing Eisenhower overwhelmingly, they again chose the Democrats to run Congress.

Childish Theft Challenge To Our Own Moral Quality

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence

The flashlight was three inches long. It was made of scarlet plastic threaded with a fine brass chain. When Donald, who owned it, let Bobby switch it on, it clicked with what seemed to him the most satisfying click any flashlight could ever make.

Bobby wanted it. Quite suddenly he wanted it so terribly that he couldn't imagine not having it. For Bobby was just four, and his confidence in the world's eagerness to please him was almost as pure as though the Garden of Eden had never been lost to us.

Accordingly, he stole Donald's flashlight.

His mother discovered it in his jeans at bedtime. Because he wished to keep it instead of returning it to Donald, he was reluctant to admit its ownership.

I'm glad to say that his mother understood his conflict perfectly; and instead of reading wicked remorselessness into it, said gently, "Yes, it is a beautiful flashlight. But it must be returned to Donald. Daddy will go with you to his house tomorrow morning and comfort you along the way."

The next morning on the way home from Donald's, Bobby's father told him why he'd had to make Bobby return the flashlight.

Describing a toy watch that had been stolen from him as a little boy, he said, "I looked for it everywhere. And everywhere I looked, I'd think, 'Maybe I'll find it here.' Then one day the boy who took it gave it back to me. It was broken. This is why we can't let you take things from children without asking. We can never be sure how much the children love the things."

This kind of explanation of our point of view is all that is needed in these situations.

As to whether we should or should not use the word "stealing" to Bobby, I don't think it matters a whoop. I think all that matters to him is the tenderness we feel for the primeval innocence in him that still sees wanting and receiving as one and the same thing.

If we feel this tenderness, we can declare our own post-Eden morality to Bobby with profit. It's good for him to learn that we respect Donald's feeling for his flashlight even though we don't demand this respect from Bobby. Even though he's lost the toy, he's comforted to know that he is the child of people to whom other children's feelings are important, too.

It's the quality of our own morality that is challenged by childish stealing.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Diefenbacher, D.D.
Many pressures influence our daily living. Some of these pressures did not concern us very much in years gone by, when our lives were less complex. When we depended less on delicate mechanisms than we do now, we did not know that these pressures existed.

Water pressure and air pressure determine the results of certain pieces of equipment. Electric power, steam pressure, gas pressure and other physical pressures influence individual living.

The greatest pressures which weigh upon us are mental and emotional pressures which cramp our souls. The pressures of society, of economics, of politics, of advertising and scores of other man-made influences change our daily living.

If we are going to control and use these complex pressures, we must have the inner pressure of the presence of God. He alone can maintain the balance in our daily living which we need in order to find peace of mind, and comfort for the soul.

Sound Policy
MILWAUKEE (AP)—Inmates at Wisconsin State Prison are rarely "put in solitary" anymore—instead they lose their radio earphones or other recreational privileges.

The system, according to Warden John Burke, is every effective. "We had a fellow who actually asked for 'solitary' instead of a 5-day loss of radio privileges," Burke said. "He didn't want to miss the weekend football games."

HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDELIGHTS FROM YOUR STATE CAPITOL

Senator Michael Kinney (D-St. Louis), shouted "I've been robbed," when he entered his office building in the state capitol recently.

Kinney normally keeps his office cluttered with old letters, magazines, newspapers and legislative bills. His desk is always piled high with an assortment ranging from pamphlets to raisins.

While he was absent from Jefferson City, the Senate janitors stacked all of Kinney's correspondence neatly and sorted magazines into orderly piles.

"Call the highway patrol," was Kinney's second comment. However, Al Booker, the head janitor, later reported that the veteran St. Louis senator was secretly pleased with the new order.

After several busy legislative days, the famous Kinney desk was nearly back to its old disarray.

Legislation which would have permitted the construction of state office buildings in any city in which state agencies rent space was defeated recently by the House of Representatives.

Proposals to permit the construction of office buildings in Kansas City and Springfield were combined as a committee substitute to permit construction of state office buildings in any Missouri city. The bill would have limited the cost to 12 times the yearly rental which the state would pay in that city.

Sponsors of the bill estimated that the state would be obliged under the bill to pay $432,000 for a state office building in Springfield and $1,260,000 for a state building in Kansas City.

However, Rep. Joe Martino, chairman of the House appropriations committee, warned that the state just can't afford the extra buildings. "When the last appropriation bill is passed, we might be in the hole," Martino said.

The substitute bill was defeated 50-66 and the bills were stricken. With April showers giving the hint that Missouri's five-year drought may be broken, the House appropriations committee has tabled a $10 million appropriation for drought relief.

Rep. Ealum Bruffett (R-Ozark County) sponsored the bill to appropriate the drought relief fund. He said the state should make some provision to assist farmers since the federal government had failed to provide any drought aid for Missouri.

Rep. Joe Martino (D-St. Louis), chairman of the appropriations committee, said the bill was tabled, rather than killed, to enable the committee to take up the measure, if needed, at any time before the present session ends.

A new juvenile code for Missouri has passed its first hurdle in the state legislature, receiving preliminary Senate approval after more than an hour of floor debate. As passed by the Senate, juvenile delinquents under 17 would be tried in special juvenile divisions of circuit court. However, juvenile traffic violators could be tried in regular court.

Included in the bill was a pro-

MEADOW BRIDGE, W.Va. (AP)—Don't correct his grammar, he might be your father.

Members of the Meadow Bridge PTA agreed in a panel discussion that too often junior was slapped down when he corrected his father's grammar.

Better, they agreed, that the parent should accept such criticism from his children gracefully, and try to perfect his own speech.

vision requiring that detention homes be set up within a court circuit to place juveniles in custody away from adult offenders. The various counties in a judicial circuit could go together to pay the costs of maintaining a juvenile detention home for use of all counties of the circuit.

Third and fourth class counties of a judicial circuit would also be empowered to jointly bear the cost of juvenile officers who would work with delinquent and neglected children within the court circuit.

The bill is not expected to have much opposition on final passage in the senate. It still faces passage in the House.

A subcommittee has been appointed by the Senate judiciary committee to study a bill which would permit a newspaper to be sued for libel in any county in which the paper is received.

Senators Michael Kinney (D-St. Louis); Edgar Keating (D-Kansas City); and Leo Rozier (R-Perryville), were named to the study group. The bill, introduced by Sen. Kelso Journey (D-Clinton), has been before the committee since January.

Robert Smith, attorney for the Missouri Press Association, testified against the bill at a committee hearing recently. He said many small newspapers might be ruined financially, if they had to defend themselves against libel suits which could be brought anywhere in the state. He asked for amendments to exempt newspaper libel suits from the bill which permits suits to be brought in either the plaintiff's or defendant's home county.

The Missouri Senate recently approved a bill which would permit volunteer firemen to place blue lights and sirens on their cars so they could get to fires in a hurry. Only before approval, the Senate amended the bill to prohibit the volunteer firefighters from breaking any traffic laws while rushing to a fire.

Several more crippling amendments were defeated. They would have required volunteer firemen to get permits for the flashing lights and sirens from the Highway Patrol superintendent; would have specified that the blue lights were no defense against possible damage suits, and would have withheld privileges normally granted emergency vehicles such as requiring other traffic to pull to the side of the highway.

Two Senate bills which would have required the Missouri flag to be flown over all public buildings and public schools were killed recently by the House civil defense committee.

Rep. Warren Hearnes (D-Mississippi County), said the committee mainly objected to the cost which the state would have incurred under the bills. The state would have purchased the school flags under the bill and Hearnes said the cost of the project might run as high as $400,000 every 10 years.

Hearnes also said that in one city in his home county the state flag would have been flying over six schools in a very small area.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Brother Edgar Not So Economy Minded

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—The economy elder brother Edgar ought to realize that economy begins at home. He could have saved the taxpayers $47,000 spent to improve drainage around his home if he had been as vigorous an economizer as he wants brother Ike to be.

Edgar Eisenhower has a home at American Lake near Tacoma, Wash., which sometimes floods. When it does, it threatens various lawns and docks around the lake, including that of brother Edgar and that of Col. James Stack, retired, a former aide to General Eisenhower in World War II.

So the Army engineers this winter dug an 1,800-foot drainage ditch to take flood water from American Lake into Lake Sequatchew, below. The cost was $57,000, of which $43,000 was paid by the Army engineers, $10,000 by the residents around the lake, and $4,000 by the county. This will keep the lake's level at a constant height of 223 feet above sea level, instead of rising at times as high as 238 feet.

The Army engineers were not at all anxious to dig the ditch. It meant money out of their budget which they hadn't figured on—and they believe in economy too. But pressure came from up above to dig, and they dug. They would not stand by the pressure came from, and Edgar Eisenhower could not be reached for comment.

Champion of Lady Senators

Handsomeness young Sen. Dick Neuberger of Oregon has become not only the champion of White House squirrels, but of equal facilities for Women Senators. He has written a letter to Sen. Dennis Chavez of New Mexico, in charge of Senate buildings, urging a swimming pool and gymnasium for Mrs. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, the one lady in the Senate.

Mrs. Smith is a Republican, Sen. Neuberger a Democrat. But gallantly he has risen to the defense, not only of Mrs. Smith, but of all women Senators who may be elected in the future.

"I have been disturbed," Sen. Neuberger wrote Sen. Chavez, "to note that the equipment of the Senate includes athletic and natatorial facilities for Senators who are men, but none for women Senators."

"This seems to me not only discrimination but also a demonstration of male arrogance which is unworthy of members of the United States Senate."

"Under the constitution and the laws of this country, a state is quite as much within its rights in sending a woman to the Senate as in sending a man. Although there is only one woman Senator at the present time, it seems to me that she—as the representative here of her sex, as well as of a great state—is entitled to all the facilities and appurtenances which are provided for male Senators.

"I hope and trust that this letter has been sent in time to call to the attention of you and your worthy associates the injustice which will be perpetrated, if the new Senate office building should continue the present discrimination of affording certain facilities only for male members of the United States Senate."

Cotton Holds Out

Assistant President Sherman Adams got on the phone to Republican Senators the other day and persuaded them to kill a tax-relief measure for small business. But one he couldn't budge was the Senator from the state he used to govern—New Hampshire.

Adams urged Sen. Norris Cotton (R., N.H.) to vote against the Fulbright Amendment giving 8 per cent tax relief to small businesses netting less than $25,000. Cotton replied that he didn't agree with Adams, he favored tax relief for small business.

"You'll get another chance to vote for it later in the session," pleaded Adams.

"I've been around here too long to fall for that," snorted Cotton. He ignored Adams' request and voted for small business.

Note: President Eisenhower announced on Oct. 22 that he "planned to ask Congress to give small businessmen about $600,000,000 in tax relief."

"Unhappy" Chandler

Gov. Happy Chandler of Kentucky has had a tough time getting a speaker for his Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner. First he tried Harry Truman, offered the ex-president any one of three different dates.

Truman replied that he was busy. He resented the fact that Chandler, so-called Democrat, had thrown his weight against Truman's good friend, Sen. Earle C. Clements of Kentucky, and caused his defeat last November.

Chandler then approached Senators Gore of Tennessee and Jack Kennedy of Massachusetts. He was angling for a friend or associate of Clements, in an effort to gain support for his own presidential ambitions.

Happy has been plenty miffed at the fact that his political enemy, ex-Senator Clements, is still a power in the Senate as chairman of the Senate Elections Committee.

But all the Senators invited by Happy turned him down. One of them told Clements:

"Earl, you know I couldn't go down and speak for that guy after what he did to you."

Finally, Happy settled for Alex Campbell, ex-Assistant Attorney General under Truman.

Sam Rayburn's Library
Speaker Sam Rayburn has been embarrassed by an advertising sales gimmick used by the Thomas Advertising Agency in Austin, Texas, to get Washington lobbyists to buy space in the Bonham Favorite, published in Sam's home town. He has asked his friends in Bonham to lay off.

Washington lobbyists have been receiving circular solicitations urging them to buy space in the "Sam Rayburn Library dedication" issue of the Bonham Favorite, to help celebrate the opening of the Library housing Sam's papers. The Library, a tribute to one of our great current statesmen, will hold the hundreds of laws which the Speaker has helped pass through Congress, plus the gavel he has wielded when the Queen of England, the King of Greece, the President of France, and various other notables spoke in Congress.

The Library is a prized project of the Speaker's. But he doesn't want Washington wire-pullers who have no legitimate business to advertise in Texas to be buying space in his local paper at $2.50 a column inch.

Costa Rica means "Rich Coast."

Guest Editorial—

CAPE GIRARDEAU MISSOURIAN: The New Underprivileged. Creeping socialism in its various guises has always prospered by creating privileged classes with special claims on the taxpayers. Once a powerful voting bloc acquires a vested interest in governmental spending it becomes deeply entrenched. Politicians in the U. S. are understandably reluctant to restrict the privileges and immunities now enjoyed by articulate minorities.

Politically sacrosanct in Great Britain, above all, are the subsidized medical services that have become a vested interest of all voters. But in Britain it's now being demonstrated that socialism can also flourish by creating new underprivileged classes. The British class that now feels underprivileged is composed of the doctors.

The Conservative government refuses to give the doctors more pay. There's not enough money for it. It would be difficult politically to transfer more of the cost of the national health service to the public. In the circumstances the doctors are left to whistle, and the Laborites seek to make the most of the government's discomfiture.

Specialist Give Best Corn Planting Rates and Periods for All of Missouri

May 10 to 15
Seen As Best
For This Area

By Bill Murphy, MU Extension Field Crops Specialist

The usual planting time for most of the Missouri corn crop runs about like this: Bootheel — last of April, Southern Missouri — early May, Central Missouri — May 10-15, Northern Missouri — May 15-20.

Experimental checks on dates of planting show no really good reasons for making much change in this traditional planting pattern.

It does appear that we can plant hybrids a little earlier than we did the open pollinated varieties. Hybrids have more vigor and the seed is processed better and is generally treated.

It's the exceptional case when late planted corn does as well as corn planted at the normal time. The late planted corn has less time to make a crop and it often hits cool weather in the fall. There is usually more insect and disease trouble such as earworm damage.

Cornborer damage is usually greater on both early and late corn. You will have less cornborer damage if you plant at the time when most of the corn is being planted in your neighborhood.

Rate of planting has a direct bearing on the yield of corn. A too thick rate of planting along with too little moisture and plant food can reduce yields. On the other hand, a low planting rate on a productive field just doesn't give enough ears to make the best possible yield. So the rate of planting should depend on the moisture holding capacity of the soil and on the fertility in the soil plus the applied fertilizers.

Because of the moisture pattern in the southwest section of the state, a rate of 10,000-12,000 plants per acre is probably the limit for practical production. That's enough plants to give efficient production of 75 to 90 bushels per acre.

For the rest of the state, 12,000-14,000 plants per acre on good upland soils should be a good planting rate. It might go up to 16,000 on good bottom land.

Higher planting rates can be used on limited acreages when trying for the highest possible yields. But higher rates become hazardous and very thick plantings will go down much worse giving more harvesting troubles and losses.

Here's a rule of thumb to follow on figuring planting rates. In 40 inch rows, plants one foot apart will give a total of 13,000 plants per acre. Of course, planting rates will have to be a little heavier than this because of seedling losses.

New Bulletin Gives Factors Of Weather

Everybody talks about the weather. And in Missouri, weather usually makes interesting conversation because changes are so frequent. The weather at any one time is the result of many factors—temperature, air pressure, moisture in the air, and winds. Some of these factors can be detected through our senses while others can only be measured by means of instruments.

A new bulletin just published by the University of Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station tells all about the how and why of weather. Entitled "Let's Look at the Weather," the new bulletin should prove both interesting and valuable to everyone.

A copy can be obtained at your county extension office . . . or by writing to the Mailing Room, College of Agriculture, at Columbia.

The bulletin brings out that perhaps we should be glad that we have such changeable weather. A glance at a map of the world shows that the more advanced types of civilization are found mostly in temperate regions where weather changes are frequent.

The bulletin was written by M. F. Miller, dean and director emeritus, University of Missouri College of Agriculture, and W. L. Decker, associate professor of climatology.

STRUCTURE DEMONSTRATION — A tube such as the one above will be installed in the end of a terrace outlet at Otto Tegtmeyer's at 1:30 on May 10. The purpose of the tube is to let water down to a natural water course without cutting back up the terrace outlet. An earth fill goes below the upright pipe and earth is filled in to the top of this pipe so the water has to go through it. The picture was taken during the installation of one on the Dr. Walter's farm northeast of LaMonte several years ago. (Extension photo)

GOOD FARMING

in Pettis County

By MERLE VAUGHAN
County Extension Agent

Dates Ahead

Saturday, April 27, 9 a.m.—4-H livestock judging.

Wednesday, May 1, 1:30 p.m.—Tube structure demonstration.

Friday, May 3, 1 p.m.—Pasture meeting.

Saturday, May 4 (morning)—Concrete cattle guard demonstration at Jack Alfrey's.

Saturday, May 4, 7:30 p.m.—Quarterly board meeting of Extension Council.

Tuesday, May 7—Lime and phosphate meeting.

Tuesday, May 14—Alfalfa tour.

Tube Structure at Tegtmeyer's.

Plans are complete for the installation of a tube structure on the George Mehan farm on Wednesday afternoon, May 1st. The farm is located four miles north and one mile east of LaMonte and is operated by Otto Tegtmeyer.

This tube structure will be letting the terrace run off water from about 20 acres down into a road culvert. The drop from the outlet to the culvert is about five feet. The tube being used includes 30 feet of 18-inch, horizontal pipe and four feet of 24-inch upright pipe.

The horizontal pipe will be welded into the upright pipe at an angle so the water will spill out of it on a level with the culvert. An earth dam will be below the structure. It will have an emergency overflow so that whenever the water gets more than two feet deep over the intake pipe it will flow around the end.

Normally the pipe size is planned so that all but the one or two hardest rains per season will be handled by the pipe above. The picture on this page shows the installation of a similar pipe on the Dr. Walter farm, northeast of LaMonte, several years ago.

Pasture Meeting May 3

A short pasture meeting is being held on two adjoining farms northwest of Dresden on Friday, May 3. The meeting is called for 1 o'clock and will be over at 2 o'clock. The meeting can get right back to their field work. Bill Murphy, extension specialist in field crops, will assist with the meeting.

The first stop will be at the Herb Gerken farm which is located two miles north, two miles west and one half mile north of Dresden. The pasture is fescue and is located on the east side of the road. Actually there are two seedlings. One was planted three years ago and the other more recently. The cattle are on the pasture and already have obtained considerable grazing.

The next stop is on the adjoining farm of Erwin Rumpf and his dad.

The Rumpf's have three seedlings of orchard grass. The first was seeded in the fall of 1954, the second the fall of 1955 and the third seeding was made about six weeks ago. It is just coming up. A bunch of ewes and lambs are being rotated on the two ten-acre fields and are keeping it eaten pretty close.

Very few folks have been able to keep their fescue and orchard grass alive. I doubt if these men had any more rainfall than elsewhere in the county. Maybe they and Bill Murphy will have some answers. The starting time is 1 o'clock sharp at the farm and we will plan to be through at 2 p.m.

Extension Council Will Have Dinner Meeting

Saturday, May 4, is the quarterly meeting of the Agricultural Extension Council. The executive committee has made plans for the meeting this time to be more of a social affair.

It will be held at a covered dish dinner for all the 34 directors and their families. It will be in the cafeteria of the Horace Mann School in southwest Sedalia.

The three women on the executive committee will have charge of the meal. They are Mrs. John Silsby, Mrs. Cloyd Leftwich, and Mrs. Rudy Rehmer.

NAACP Trial in Texas On 11 Charges Starts In US District Court

TYLER, Tex. (AP)—Trial of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People's right to operate in Texas was called here today.

The NAACP has been inoperative in the state since last fall. Dist. Judge Otis T. Dunagan issued a temporary injunction against the Negro organization Oct. 23 after a five-week hearing here.

The state accused the NAACP of 11 violations of state laws, including soliciting law suits, profit-making while chartered as a non-profit institution, and political maneuvering, also in violation of its state charter.

The NAACP said evidence was illegally gathered and witnesses intimidated by armed officers.

The NAACP asked the full trial on merits on the question of a permanent injunction.

Rebels In Union Suits

VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP)—Edwin C. Bearss, historian at Vicksburg National Military Park, says he has uncovered a new story of Confederate Gen. Thomas (Stonewall) Jackson which he has been unable to authenticate but which he is reasonably certain is true.

The story: After successfully repulsing a Federal drive at Fredericksburg, Va., Dec. 13, 1862, Jackson proposed a night attack, relatively rare in those days.

"But," an aide said, "in the darkness, how will we be able to distinguish our men from the enemy?"

"We'll attack in our underwear," Jackson replied.

Pettis County Will Have Lime Survey

During the past winter lime surveys were made by local leaders in about 20 counties in the state. The results were so startling that other counties are being invited to make similar surveys.

Pettis County has been invited to make its survey the week of May 7. Actually what is done is to make about two borings on each field and pasture on the tester's farm. Each boring will be testing with a chemical at 1, 3, 5 and 7 inch depths to measure the amount of calcium available.

An addition is being added to future tests in that an available phosphate test will be conducted along with the lime. We had an item show up on that last week.

A farmer was wondering about lack of nitrogen reaction and he used the above tests to check for lime and phosphate. The area between two terraces showed practically no phosphate reaction even though the owner had rode the phosphate truck across that spot.

Interested folks will be invited to make the survey on their own farm. They will meet at some farm in the morning and learn to use the equipment. Then that afternoon or sometime during the week they will be expected to test the fields on their farm. They must be through by the end of the week so the next county use the equipment.

About 50 farms are surveyed in each county. In Pettis County first choice will be given to present, past, and future members of the Farm and Home Planning Association and to members of the Agricultural Extension Council.

Folks interested in making a survey of their own farm should contact the extension office.

MU Safety Meeting Stresses Need for Local Committees

The need for more local safety committees was stressed at a regular meeting of the Missouri Rural Safety Council held recently at the University of Missouri. These safety committees would operate in each county or community to handle local safety problems.

In opening the meeting, the president of the organization, Harold Schmitz, St. Joseph, pointed out that the farm accident rate has continued at a high level. And there has been an increase in the number of traffic accidents involving farm machinery. He also noted that several states have been able to significantly decrease their accident rate by intensive safety campaigns.

Marshall Man Gets Richards Scholarship

Presentation of awards was one of the highlights of the annual banquet held this week by the University of Missouri Agriculture Club.

John Hanes, of Marshall, was presented the $300 Richards scholarship. This grant is presented annually to a junior majoring in animal husbandry in honor of Frank Richards, secretary of the American Angus Association.

The $50 Greenlee award, was presented to Robert O'Neil, of Newtonia, a junior majoring in poultry husbandry. This grant is made annually by A. D. Greenlee, a St. Louis poultry products dealer.

A junior from Columbia, Richard Henderson, was selected to receive the Missouri State Horticultural Society plaque award.

The Alpha Zeta freshman scholarship award went to Ivan Berry, of Mt. Vernon, for having the highest grades of any ag freshman during the 1955-56 school year.

In addition to these awards, . . . other student leaders and judging team members were presented Ag Club keys. Feature speaker at the banquet was Wheeler McMillen, vice-president of Farm Journal, Inc.

Kansas State Dean Speaks To MU Meeting

Featured guest speaker at the Spring Livestock Day held recently at the University of Missouri was A. D. Weber, dean of Agriculture at Kansas State College.

Speaking of quality in agricultural products . . . Weber said it's far better to produce less of a high quality product than too much of a low-quality product. And he said an agriculture stressing quality products that consumers want and need is most likely to provide a solution for present and future farm problems. It's also important that such an agriculture aim for maximum net returns through better management and greater efficiency.

According to Weber . . . emphasis in a quality concept would be placed upon protective foods such as meat, milk, eggs, and fruit. In turn, these products would be identified by grades to express their quality.

The Kansas State Dean said that agriculture is now struggling with problems inherent in and created by its own concept of operation and development. The problems of surplus commodities, the cost-price squeeze, new consumer preferences, and changing market requirements are representative of the problems that must be dealt with now and in the future.

The budget committee of the Council submitted a proposed budget that included expenditures for a Safety Field Day, awards to 4-H and FFA members of trips to National Safety Congress in Chicago, a fire prevention contest, and tractor tipping demonstrations. The Rural Safety Council is supported by contributions of individuals and organizations.

The Council heard reports by two of Missouri's delegates to President Eisenhower's Safety Congress in Washington, D.C. The delegates, Mrs. Frank Willey, Lad-donia, and George Isaacs, Fawcett, pointed out that the farm accident rate is higher than that in industry. They also stressed the need of thinking of safety as being a good business habit.

Completion of marketing means that the title for wool or lambs must have passed from the seller to the buyer. If any part of the sale needed to determine the total purchase price is not complete, the sale will not be considered under the 1956 program. Sales completed after March 31, 1957, will be eligible under the 1957 program.

Effect of Additives On Sheep Rations Is Topic at Meeting

One of the subjects reported on at Spring Livestock Day held recently at the University of Missouri was the effect of additives on sheep rations. The Missouri researchers reported that using hexestrol implants with feeder lambs resulted in bigger gains. Average daily gain for the feeder lambs getting the hexestrol was .49 pounds. Daily gain on the lot not getting hexestrol was .37 pounds.

This test showed no significant difference in rate of gain between ewe and wether lambs. Neither was there a gain difference between lambs vaccinated for enterotoxemia and those that were not vaccinated.

Sees Possible 120 Below Zero At South Pole

WASHINGTON (AP)—The first men to spend the winter at the South Pole expect the thermometer to drop to 120 below zero at midseason, the Navy said today.

This would be 30 degrees colder than anyone else has ever experienced, Navy weather experts said.

The world record for cold in which men have lived is 90 below, recorded in northeastern Siberia in February 1933. The 18 Americans at the South Pole came within a degree of that mark April 2, when they reported by radio a low of minus 89.

Winter comes in the antarctic when summer comes in the Northern Hemisphere.

Altogether, 338 U.S. scientists and military men are spending the polar winter at seven Operation Deep Freeze outposts, scattered over distances of hundreds of miles.

A sampling of the reports they send back:

Little America — Lt. (J.G.) Robert J. Adams, Memphis, reported that an attempt to hatch chicks for Easter had failed. Candling of six New Zealand eggs selected for incubation showed "no growth."

Byrd Station — Scientists were "astounded" to discover that ice in the area extended to a depth of 7,800 to 9,750 feet. They believe that all this ice rests on land.

Ellsworth Station — Navy cook Edward H. Davis, Clinton, Iowa, said the men are eating 1½ times their normal amount of food — mostly proteins, consumption of which is at twice the rate for a corresponding stateside naval base.

Storm Clouds Hover Over Southern Plains

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Storm clouds hovered over hard hit areas in the Southern Plains today after a weekend of violent weather in Texas.

Wet weather was indicated for many other parts of the country. The heavy rainfall over the weekend in Texas sent many rivers to near flood stage with warnings of overflows in lowlands south of Dallas.

Eleven tornadoes skipped across the Lone Star State last night, 10 of them striking in the Texas Panhandle and South Plains. An estimated 12 to 14 persons were injured and one man was reported missing. Property damage was reported heavy.

Heavy rainfall was reported in many parts of Texas, adding to the general copious falls in the last two months. The downpours prompted state officials to express cautious optimism that the drought, now in its seventh year, appeared broken in all except the western and extreme southern sections.

Thunderstorms also rumbled across the middle Mississippi valley during the night, the most violent in eastern Missouri and north-eastern Arkansas. Showers fell in the warm air from the Ohio River southward to the Gulf.

Ike, Stassen Will Confer On Disarming

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower will confer here tomorrow with Harold E. Stassen amid fresh indications the United States now sees some chance for agreement with Russia on a first step toward disarmament.

Stassen, Eisenhower's disarmament adviser, is scheduled to arrive by plane from Washington tonight. After talks with the vacationing President at the Augusta National Golf Club, he will return to London for resumption of disarmament negotiations by a U.N. subcommittee.

Recess of the negotiations for the Easter weekend brought Stassen to Washington Saturday for an interim report to Secretary of State Dulles and other administration officials. After that meeting the government put out a statement calling for a continued "serious effort to reach an initial partial agreement for a first step" toward disarmament with safeguards for inspection and control.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said Dulles had recommended that Stassen make a personal report to the President. In the first place, Dulles and Stassen obviously believe the status of the London negotiations warrants Eisenhower's personal attention.

Secondly, only a few weeks ago the White House announced that in the future Stassen no longer would report directly to the President but to Dulles, who would keep Eisenhower advised regarding any disarmament developments. Dulles said in explanation that he and Eisenhower had agreed the situation in that field had reached a point where the State Department should have policy supervision.

There was no indication at that time that Stassen would never again deal directly with Eisenhower on disarmament. Rather, there were indications that if such dealings took place they likely would reflect some highly important development.

Hagerty said that because the London negotiations are continuing, Stassen will hold no "full-fledged" news conference here after his session with Eisenhower but will meet with newsmen "to say what he can."

The President, who arrived in Augusta Thursday and plans to remain at least through this week, spent a quiet Easter with Mrs. Eisenhower and their house guests, Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. George M. Humphrey.

The President put aside government business temporarily after conferring by telephone with Dulles. They discussed and Eisenhower approved a major foreign policy speech Dulles is making in New York today at the annual luncheon meeting of The Associated Press.

Things Went All Wrong

Easter Sunday Was Weird Day, Baseball Historians Will Record

The Associated Press
When baseball historians grope through the records of Sunday, April 21, 1957, at some distant date, they'll mark it down as the day that:

1. A "day" doubleheader at Washington was called because of power failure.

2. Don Newcombe tied a record by throwing home run balls to three successive Pittsburgh batters.

3. Don Hoak, a Cincinnati base runner, "fielded" a grounder between second and third and tossed it to Johnny Logan, Milwaukee shortstop, thus, in effect, retiring himself.

4. Jim Wilson pitched 6 2-3 perfect innings for the Chicago White Sox and didn't allow a Kansas City hit until there was one out in the ninth.

5. Frank Lane gnashed his teeth as a man he traded to Chicago Saturday, Bobby Del Greco, came through with a base hit that helped beat the St. Louis Cardinals 5-3 and then patted himself on the back for engineering the deal that brought Sam Jones, a 6-3 winner in the second game, to St. Louis from the Cubs.

All in all, Easter Sunday was a day to be remembered if for no other reason than that the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers finally lost a game.

After one week of play, the Milwaukee Braves and the Chicago White Sox are the only unbeaten teams and the Cincinnati Redlegs are the only winners.

President Will Harridge has a problem on his hands after the second game at Washington was called because of power failure after five innings with Washington on top 2-1.

Since American League rules do not cover such a situation, Harridge will make a ruling after he gets the complete report from his umpires.

Baltimore won the first game 11-9, a wild affair that lasted 3 hours and 50 minutes and wasn't decided until the Orioles came up with two in the 10th inning. A total of 39 players, including 13 pitchers, saw action with George

Says It's Not Carelessness Affecting Him

NEW YORK (AP)—Robin Roberts doesn't agree with Mayo Smith that his numerous home run pitches are the result of "just plain carelessness," but the star Philadelphia right-hander has no desire to become involved in a wrangle with his manager.

"That home run pitch is still with me," Robbie admitted ruefully today, referring to the one he threw to Hank Sauer that helped the New York Yankees win the first game of yesterday's double-header from Philadelphia 2-1. The Phils took the nightcap 3-5.

"I wish I knew the reason," but the 30-year-old Roberts added, "but I don't. One thing I do know, however, it's not because I'm careless. They're just bad pitches, that's all. Why alibi?"

Sauer's home run, hit in the second inning, was the fourth "gopher ball" yielded by Roberts in two starts this season. He threw three in losing a 7-6, 12-inning game to Brooklyn last Tuesday.

It was after that game that the usually mild-mannered Smith hurled his "careless" charge.

"I am pitching no differently today than I did when I was winning 20 games each year," Roberts said with a trace of annoyance, "and I've never before been accused of being careless. I guess that's something you have to expect when you're losing. You never hear such things when you're winning."

Roberts was a losing pitcher for the second straight time yesterday but he deserved a better date. It was one of his better games. The Giants made six hits off him, only one after the fourth inning.

The Yanks lost their first game

5-4 to Boston when a wind-blown pop fly fell for a single between pitcher Bob Grim and the first base line with catcher Yogi Berra in pursuit. Gene Mauch dashed home from second while Sam White's fly was falling for a game-winning single, giving Dave Sisler the verdict. Bill Skowron hit two homers.

Wilson retired the first 20 Kansas City batters. He finally walked Gus Zernial in the seventh. Hector Lopez broke his no-hitter with a single in the ninth and Harry Simpson also singled.

Tom Morgan, who matched Wilson's three-hitter, gave up the only run of the 1-0 game in the 10th on Sherm Lollar's sacrifice fly with the bases loaded.

Jack Dittmer, playing his first game for Detroit since his trade by Milwaukee in late winter, came through with a bloop pinch single for a 3-2 edge over Cleveland. It gave Jim Bunning the victory over Cal McLish.

Newcombe delivered successive home runs to Frank Thomas, Paul Smith and Dick Groat of Pittsburgh in the third inning of the first game at Brooklyn, won by the Pirates 6-3. Vern Law, who left with a pulled muscle, Bob Purkey and Roy Face held the Dodgers to two hits. One was a three-run homer by Carl Furillo in the ninth.

Brooklyn took the second 7-4, routing Ron Kline in the second as Don Zimmer and Junior Gilliam each collected three hits. Don Drysdale won it.

Hank Sauer beat the Phillies all by himself in the first game with a homer and a ninth-inning single that gave New York's Johnny Antonelli a 2-1 edge over Robin Roberts.

In the second game, the Phils knocked out rookie Curt Barclay before he could retire a man and continued for an 8-5 triumph despite homers by Whitey Lockman and Willie Mays off winner Jack Sanford.

Del Crandall drove in two big runs with a single in Milwaukee's 3-1 victory over Cincinnati. Warren Spahn took his second straight at the expense of Johnny Klippstein.

Hoak, running toward third in the first inning, fielded a ground ball hit by Gus Bell and was declared an automatic out. Bell was given a hit by the scorer although the umpires and Manager Birdie Tebbets of the Redlegs differed on whether "interference" should have been called.

Iowa's Cyclones Lead Big Seven In Baseball

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Iowa State's Cyclones top the standings in Big Seven baseball today after a week in which not one of the six teams in action was able to sweep a three-game series.

Iowa State has a 2-1 record after beating Missouri, 19-9 on Friday then breaking even in a double bill Saturday. State won the first game 6-5 and Missouri salvaged the nightcap 7-3.

In other seven-inning double-headers last Saturday Kansas State beat Kansas 3-1 in the opener at Manhattan only to have the Wildcats take the second game 11-3. Colorado defeated visiting Nebraska 7-6 then let the Cornhuskers get away for a 7-5 victory in the nightcap.

Oklahoma pays a return visit to Oklahoma A&M on Tuesday.

Kansas State will be at Oklahoma, Iowa State at Nebraska, and Missouri at Kansas Friday and Saturday.

Kansas Relays See Thirteen Records Sunk

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—Cinderblasting relay teams from Texas and Kansas set the tempo for tremendous performances in the 32nd Kansas Relays Saturday. Thirteen records were broken.

The Texas Longhorns' 440-yard relay team of Wally Wilson, Eddie Southern, Hollis Gaaney and Bobby Whilden won the event in the amazing time of 39.9 seconds, compared to the world record of 40.2 seconds set by a Texas foursome in 1955.

Texas relay teams won two other events, the half mile relay in 1:24.2 and the distance medley in 10:04.3, both new meet records.

The Kansas Jayhawks also won three baton tricks and in one of them, the 4-mile relay, Hal Long, Tom Skutka, Jan Howell and Jerry McNeal bettered the intercollegiate record in the time of 16:57.8. The recognized intercollegiate record of 17:08.6 was made by Michigan in 1952.

The Jayhawks' team of Grant Cookson, Skutka, Bernie Gay and Lowell Janzen set a meet record of 7:32.3 in the University 2-mile relay. Kansas captured the university mile relay in 3:12.6.

Billy Tidwell, of Emporia State was voted the most outstanding performer of the meet after anchoring his team to meet records in the college sprint medley, 3:22.6, and the college mile relay, 3:15.1. He was clocked at 1:49.5 for his half mile trick and in :47.5 for the quarter.

Bill Nieder, University of Kansas student, upset Parry O'Brien of Los Angeles in a shot put exhibition.

Nieder got off the best heave of his career, 62-2. O'Brien's best effort was 59-1. O'Brien's world record is 63-2.

Among other upsets: Charlie Batch, Missouri, ran the 120-yard high hurdles in :14.1 to beat Eddie Southern handily. Orlando Hazley, Oklahoma A&M sophomore, won the 100-yard dash in 9.5 seconds, two strides ahead of Bobby Whilden.

Cliff Cushman, Kansas freshman, won the 400-meter hurdles in :51.9, nipping Kansas State's Gene O'Connor who was trying for his third straight success here.

Al Oerter, Kansas' Olympic champion, set a new meet record in the discus of 178'11".

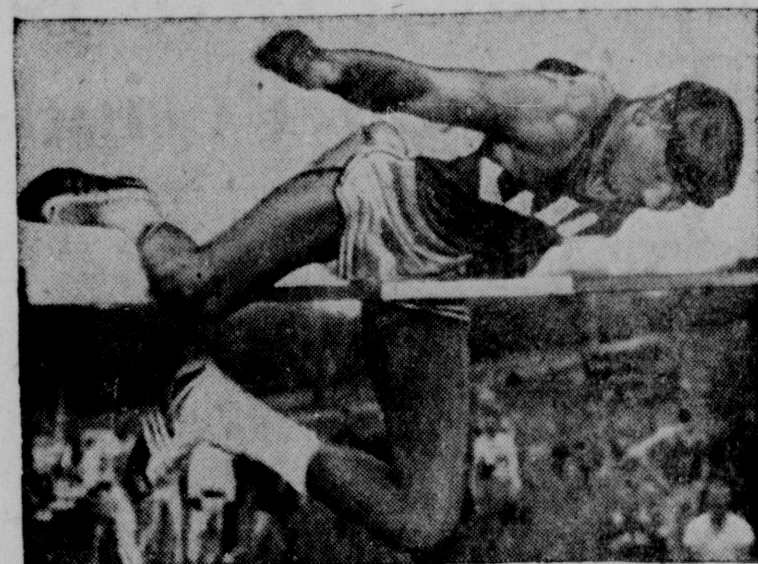

The Glenn Cunningham Mile was won by Gail Hodgson, University of Oklahoma freshman, in 4:11.

Kenneth Kelly, former North Texas State College star now at Fort Sam Houston, Tex., won the 2-day 10-event decathlon with a total of 5,891 points.

Spiritual YGK (AP)—The American Baptist publication, Missions, has called on 55 denominations to join in an intensive investigation of "spiritual enigmas" of the age—similar to the work of scientists of 55 nations on natural enigmas during the International Geophysical Year.

"We might find that the basic concerns of man are not physical, but spiritual, and that his future on this planet depends not so much on his knowledge of science as on his understanding of himself and his fellow men," says the Rev. Dr. John C. Slemph, editor of the Baptist organ.

Game Halt by Lights Presents Problem

WASHINGTON (AP)—American League President Will Harridge faced the job today of deciding whether a game called because the floodlights won't work is a completed contest, or one that must be continued later.

The umpires plunked the unprecedented problem in his lap when they were forced to halt the second game of yesterday's doubleheader between Washington and Baltimore. The Senators were leading 2-1 at the end of five innings—enough to make the game official if rain, rather than lights, had forced the halt.

Harridge said in Chicago that he would make a decision after he receives all the details from the umpires.

The disputed game was sent into darkness, play by a 3 hour 50 minute, wild first game which Baltimore won 11-9 with two runs in the 10th inning.

The umpires said it was the first time since lights were introduced to baseball that a lighting failure had kept an American League game from being completed. And the rule book doesn't say what they're supposed to do about it.

Leo Durocher, major league baseball manager, is of French extraction and started his baseball career in the Catholic Junior League in West Springfield, Mass.

Six Noncoms Are Charged In Beating

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — An Army court-martial this week will try six noncommissioned officers on charges of beating a trainee who challenged any one of them to a fight. Ft. Carson officers said today.

The trial will be either Wednesday or Thursday.

Capt. Jack Vermuel, public information officer, said the recruit, Pvt. Daniel Chuebrich, 18, Chicago, was treated at the base hospital for cuts and bruises suffered in the fight Friday in a day room at the fort. He will be held at the hospital two more days for observation.

Those to be tried, Vermuel said, are M.Sgt. Billy C. Short, first sergeant of Battery C, 60th Field Artillery Battalion; Sergeants Billy Fowler, Clinton, Tenn., and James E. Ramage, Seneca, S. C.; and James E. Harding, Murfreesboro, Tenn., Claude E. Owens and Robert G. Parker, specialists third class. Short is charged with "conspiracy to commit assault and cruelty and maltreatment." Vermuel said. The others will be charged with simple assault, he said. The penalty upon conviction is demotion in rank.

Vermuel gave this account: Chuebrich, a former amateur boxer, was ordered by the acting platoon sergeant into a "leaning-rest" or pushup position as punishment for disregarding an instruction.

Chuebrich refused. The recruit was then taken before the battery commander, who ordered the matter dropped.

The entire company was lined up later in the afternoon, and Short asked the company whether

Tommy Manville Plans To Take Showgirl As His Tenth Bride

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (AP) — Tommy Manville says a towering Texas showgirl will soon become his 10th bride.

Manville, 63, said he will marry blonde Pat Gaston, 27, in two weeks. She is appearing in the "Ziegfeld Follies" at a New York theater.

Manville made his announcement at New Rochelle Hospital. He was there for his annual checkup. His bride-to-be dropped by to deliver an Easter basket.

Miss Gaston's mother first disclosed the forthcoming marriage in an announcement at San Antonio, Tex., Saturday.

Manville has had 11 weddings and nine wives. He was married twice to each of two former wives.

Manville said he was "lucky." Miss Gaston would have him, and he added: "She's the most beautiful one of them all." Purred Pat, who is almost six feet tall: "He has such a marvelous sense of humor . . . I get along with him. I don't get along too well with everybody."

Chuebrich should be punished. The vote was for punishment.

Chuebrich was taken to the barracks room before five of the noncommissioned officers to discuss the punishment.

Chuebrich challenged any one of them to a fight. Parker accepted the challenge. However, as Chuebrich, described as "big and strong," started winning the fight, the other noncoms joined in and "subdued" Chuebrich.

Short was not present at the fight, but was held responsible for the actions of the other noncommissioned officers beneath him in rank.

Short was charged with cruelty and maltreatment and with conspiracy to commit assault and battery.

Says Humphrey Has No Plans to Resign, Will Take Up Golf

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey has no present plans to resign from the Cabinet. And at age 67 he has decided to take up President Eisenhower's favorite game, golf.

That is the word, on both matters, from White House press secretary James C. Hagerty. Hagerty last night denied a published report that Humphrey had canceled the lease on his Washington home and would leave the Cabinet soon.

"The secretary has no plans to leave the government," Hagerty told newsmen after checking with Humphrey, who is the vacationing Eisenhower's guest at the Augusta National Golf Course.

As for golf, it took Humphrey more than four years of occasionally watching the President play before deciding it's the game for him, too, Hagerty told newsmen.

Valentino Memorial
NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — A church dedicated to the memory of the late Rudolph Valentino has been opened here.

The opening service of the "Valentino Memorial Church of Psychic Fellowship" was conducted on a recent Sunday evening. The program included piano selections from music used with Valentino's last movie, "The Son of the Sheik."

The pastor, Rev. Carol E. McKinstry, said all fans and friends of the late Valentino, as well as spiritualists, are invited to attend the church.

Most Executives Are Leery Of New 7th Week Vacation

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The business world is buzzing with a proposal that has stirred the canyons of commerce more than anything since some unknown inventor the expense account.

The proposal is to protect that little shepherd of the till, the business executive, from wrinkling cares by forcing him to take every seventh week off with full pay. Bart Schwartz, a textile company president, has just put the executives of his own firm on this program of compulsory leisure after testing it for four months himself.

"It works," he said, "we'll all live longer, work harder, be happier, make more money."

I wonder. The idea of a week of vacation for every six weeks spent on the treadmill sounds like seventh heaven to the ordinary office employee. It may please the wives of executives, too. But how about the executives themselves?

They are excited by the thought of getting paid 7½ weeks out of the year for doing nothing except improve their health. But they are inclined to look for the thistle hidden beneath this latest fringe benefit.

"Great suggestion," said one executive I talked to. "Our work load is terrific. It'll keep a lot of us from killing ourselves if it becomes widespread in industry. But in my own case, I don't feel that I really need it or want it."

That is a typical reaction. Every executive is sure that a vacation every seventh week is fine medicine — for the other fellow, not him.

Why? Let's explore the situation. The proper care and feeding of his heroes has been a problem with all civilizations.

But in the old days, when the warrior was the hero, the solution was simple. If the hero won a crucial battle, he was rewarded with a big slice of the defeated enemy's tax money, a palace or two, and a couple of dozen more girl grape-fetchers to enlarge his harem.

Today we have a different brand of hero. The real hero of 20th century America is neither the warrior nor matinee idol, neither Gen. Douglas MacArthur nor that troubled troubadour with the talented sideburns, Elvis Presley.

Our national hero is that magician of the marketplace, the business executive. And no hero in history has been harder to keep healthy or compensate adequately.

The present-day business executive seems to be as sensitive as a Swiss watch, likely to get wound up and break down with everything from ulcers to athlete's foot, from heart attack to hernia.

Every possible reward of a materialistic society is held out on a platter to cheer the tired tycoon and keep his hormones humming. He is often given a high salary, a fat expense account, an office-paid car, office-paid "business" trips to Florida that are in reality vacations, stock deals, bonuses, free insurance, medical benefits for him and his family, and pensions that would match a king's ransom.

Some firms even provide a staff psychiatrist and he can lie down on a couch and talk about his troubles on company time.

Why, showered with all these goodies, do executives fall prey to more physical and emotional ills than you can find in the average clinic. Is it all because of the responsibility of their jobs?

There could be another answer: That the executive enjoys so many golden benefits he worries himself sick for fear that someone will take them away, or when he dies he won't be able to take them with him. He has so much security it makes him feel insecure. After all, what can heaven promise him that his firm hasn't already given him?

Which brings us right back to why most executives are leery of Mr. Schwartz's daring idea of multiple vacations for executives. It's simply too good to be safe. As an executive said frankly: "If I thought my boss felt he could get along without me one week out of seven, I'd never really be able to rest in my swivel chair again."

Pope Warns Against Peril Of Nuclear Age

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius XII has warned that the world has entered a nuclear age which could "unexpectedly become engulfed in storm."

But—his words carrying strongly over St. Peter's Square—the pontiff also promised in his annual Easter message there was hope for the development of a mighty nuclear era dedicated to peace.

More than 300,000 pilgrims, largest throng ever to listen to a papal Easter message, gave a tremendous cheer as the frail, 81-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church finished speaking from the central loggia of St. Peter's Basilica.

The piazza looked like white caps at sea as men, women and children waved handkerchiefs.

Vatican radio and European television network carried the Pope's words to millions. In the next few days the Easter message will be broadcast in 28 languages.

The Pope spoke at noon yesterday. His words coupled hope with warning—hope for the possibilities of a mighty nuclear age dedicated to peace and warning against its possible uses for war. He reiterated his 1956 Easter message blessing the peaceful uses of nuclear energy.

Delayed Recovery
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A Central High student named Bill Labkoff stopped by the school office and was handed a mechanical drawing made by secretary Anita Tobias. "I found this here," Mrs. Tobias said. "It must be yours. It has your name on it."

Bill examined it and said: "No, it's my father's." Inside the set was printed — "L. Labkoff, Sept. 1925."

The elder Labkoff, (Leon J.) said he lost the set that year when he was a student at Central. The school has moved since then but obviously the drawing set went with it.
